

Have you “Been there and done that”?

Beware of people who haven't. Would you hire a business consultant who had never run a business? You shouldn't. The same goes for computer consultants who haven't worked in the industry or business trainers without instructional experience.